I cannot find words that will express my joy at this opportunity to be in the midst of our own church, among our own people, to express the sentiment of our hearts in a song.

Coffee Farmers Ready To Turn Winter Crop Crops

Those who sowed Austrian winter peas last fall are ready now to turn them under to be followed in about 10 days to two weeks with either corn or cotton. We have these peas and observe the crop that follows them. The average increase last year where corn followed peas was 25 bushels per acre. Where cotton followed peas, the average increase was 350 pounds seed cotton per acre.

To determine the value of the peas, measure a square 10 feet by 10 feet. Cut peas up close to the ground and weigh. If you have 15 pounds of green peas, the equivalent in nitrogen to that of 200 pounds of seed of seeds has already been made.

I would like to call your attention to the fields sown by Mr. Bob Lee, Elba, Rt. 3, A. Folson, who has a good crop of peas.

Reform, like charity, should begin at home.

So far, the Muscogee shoals agitation has been much ado about nothing.

Madama Gough is encouraging the scowls of India to manufacture booting salt.

The expression "everything is jake" doesn't apply after imbibing a few jake cocktails.

"D. A. R. seek Washington's most historic spot." Well, there's the little green house on K Street.

H. G. Wells says "scrap the nations" to prevent war. But that would bring on the biggest scrap of all.

Certain dyes want to strengthen the Constitution and Elbert Hammon by making some buy-laws.

Jews and Arabs are squabbling about that wailing wall again. It seems that they will never get caught up with their wailing.

"The Silent Women of America" is the name of a new national organization. Strongly enough, it is not composed of deaf-mutes.

A scientist thinks sleep is a form of extinction. And who wants the married man who talks loosely while under the influence.

An inquiring reporter asks: "What kind of a husband does a wife miss the most?" The little fellows are the more difficult targets.

That Wisconsin man who was fined for getting his own wife in public should have known that such unconventional conduct would not be tolerated.

An explorer declares that Commonwealth Bay, Antarctica, is the wildest place in the world. But he probably never visited the United States Senate chamber.

A Danish critic declares that movies are designed for the entertainment of nit-wits. Anyway, it's evident that either the movies or the critics are rotten in Denmark.

EVERY $1.00 BRINGS BACK $5.70

Proved by 1007 Supervised Cotton Demonstrations

HERE is convincing data on cotton profits, absolute proof that the right food at the right times makes real money from your cotton crop.

In 1007 supervised demonstrations, in nine Southern States, average application of 180 lbs. of Chilean Nitrate made an average increase of 415 lbs. of seed cotton per acre. Every dollar invested in Chilean Nitrate brought back $5.70 in extra cotton. In all these demonstrations, four-fifths of Chilean Nitrate was used as side dressing.

Side dressing with Chilean Nitrate makes a big difference. This nitrate fertilizer goes right to work. Plants digest it quickly. Crops become vigorous and healthy... resist pests and disease... more bolls form... more of them carry through to earlier maturity. Quality is improved and yield is increased. Remember... every Cotton Champion used Chilean Nitrate to make his winning crop. No matter what fertilizer you use at planting, side dress your cotton liberally with Chilean Nitrate. It is the only natural nitrate fertilizer in the world. In fact, it is Chilean. See your local fertilizer dealer. If he does not carry Chilean Nitrate of Soda he can easily get it for you.

Free Fertilizer Book
New book, "How to Fertilize Cotton," tells how to use Chilean Nitrate for best results. Free. Ask for Book No. 2, or text out this ad and mail with your name and address on the margin.

"THE COW PEN"

A Corner To Be Used Exclusively For the Promotion of Plan To Locate Better Cows In This County
BY W. M. BRUNSON

I told you last week that I expected to buy a few good bulls and grow them for twelve months, telling you as we went along just what they cost, what they weighed and what I sold them for. I was honest in telling you that I would get these bulls at an early date. I went to the stock pens last week and tried to buy some good, clean stuff that we could use in this experiment, but to my surprise, I could not get the bulls at a reasonable price. They wanted ten cents per pound for the youngsters and of course I could not afford to pay such a price. I believe I waited a few weeks too late to get these bulls and I believe it will be necessary for me to wait about two months longer if I am to get them at a fair price. Just hundreds of folks are trying to get something cheap that will grow.

So please remember that we have called off the experiment on the yearlings. We will try to get something later but unless you hear from us further we will not try the matter at this year.

While I was in the stock pens in Montgomery trying to get some desirable stuff to experiment with, there were three trucks there unloading Coffee County cows and how many small calves there were in those three trucks. The calves were all fat and looked good, but the growers of these calves could have kept them and sold them for four or five times as much money without putting a single dollar more in them. But we must have a little money right now and it seems that we must make the sacrifice, so our calves are all going while they are small.

Not a single baby calf came to us last week. We do not expect to receive many more this summer. We will continue to get a few, but the bulk of them will be kept by the dairymen as grass is now plentiful and they can raise them very cheaply around the dairies. We will do well to get an average of two calves each from now until the grass begins to fail.

I am mighty glad to note that the boys over in Dale are doing fine with the new creamery over there. They are making butter to beat the band and they are making money, too. By this time next year we hope to have things going here in Coffee County. We will probably not have a creamery by that time, but we will get a station and we can then get a creamery pretty easily. Are you doing your part in an effort to locate a creamery here in Elba? Or do you belong to that class who sit idly by and wait, hoping that the other fellow will put it over and that you will get a little out of it? Do a good sport and do your part. Boost your community, your county and your state. Did you ever know of a knocker doing any good for himself or for any body else? A knocker is about the most worthless animal in the whole wide world. I hope that no one will ever be able to say that I am a knocker.

I saw an article in The Montgomery Advertiser the other day telling about one of the cow boys of Montgomery County. She gave more than 400 pounds of butter fat in 305 days. That is a wonderful record and I am mighty proud that some of the boys down here are getting some of that stock of cows. There are just too few of these heifers at that place and I will be glad to engage them for you if you want me to. They will cost you $50.00 each. I do hope that some one will take them as I want them to come to Coffee County. They will be gone in a few weeks if some one does not take them. You will never get a better chance at a fine cow for $50.00.

Have you checked up on your crop lately? Are you satisfied with your acreage of feed stuff? Don't let cotton get between you and a good living. Think now and then follow out your plan.

By the way, have you seen that guy who is the father of ten children and who wants to buy a peck of seed velvet beans for his two-woman farm that is so poor that it won't sprout speckled peas unless you pour down the guano? You will know him when you see him, as he has a cow that has two knotty shoots and is as ugly as sin itself.

Rice Culture Will Be Tried Out In Coffee
Information has come to us that the people of Kinston territory are preparing to plant rice as a small crop. Not as a money crop, but for the purpose of making what is needed for home consumption.

This will be a good move for that section and, too, it will be a good one for the farmers of this territory to raise a few bushels of rice. Mr. T. M. Holley, of Kinston, is installing a regular rice machine for the purpose of cleaning the rice grown in his and adjoining territory. He is also prepared to furnish anyone with rice seed. If interested in this project let us know and we will get in touch with this party or anyone who can furnish you seed and try the plan of raising your own rice at home.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY MET
The Young People's Missionary Society held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist Church for Bible study program.

Mrs. R. S. Boyd presided at the meeting, in the absence of the president.

The Scripture lesson was read from the sixteenth chapter of Mark. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The meeting was turned over to Mary Eleanor Prescott for the Bible study.

The meeting was closed with the reading of "Going to School," by Jean Rhodes.

A short business session was then held and plans were made for the completion of the girls' room as some money has been secured. We hope to have this room open for inspection at the next meeting, April 29. Every parent try to be at that meeting if possible. Miss Hughes visited the meeting and gave some very interesting ways by which we might raise money. The members of the P. T. A. are very enthusiastic over the new plan and it is hoped that they will be able to put great projects over in the future.

ELBA P. T. A. MEETS

He has been invited as representative from Alabama and neighboring States to the annual convention of chapter delegates of the American Red Cross. The convention will be held in Washington, D. C., May 5 to 8, and will be attended by fully a thousand leaders in Red Cross work from all sections of the nation.

Mr. Brunson has also been invited to the dinner at Washington on May 6, which will be presided over by President Hoover as head of the American Red Cross, and which will be one of the high points in the convention program. By request, he will deliver an address at the dinner, telling of his experiences and those of other farmers of Elba, during the disastrous flood which all but wiped the town from the map.

It has been the custom for years, at these conventions, it is stated, for the Red Cross to invite a representative citizen from each section of the nation, to attend and discuss such problems as are peculiar to their respective sections. In the past, representatives have come from various Southern States. This is the first time, it is stated, that the Southeastern representative has been chosen from Alabama.

When the disastrous flood swept down on Elba, March 1, 1929, Mr. Brunson, who resided there, was not only one of the heaviest sufferers from the wrecked town, but he also had to witness the swirling waters having wrought by the cross. The attendance at the service is quite good, considering the early hour.

McCOLLOUGH HOME DEM. CLUB MET FRIDAY
The meeting of the McCollough club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Lela McCollough.

The meeting was called to order by the president. The secretary read the roll and read the minutes. The secretary then read the pledge when they vote in the primary. I hereby request all candidates to call at the Probate Office in Elba and join me in asking the Chairman and members of the Executive committee to meet and receive the resolution requesting the voters to sign the Pledge, the best interests of the party requiring it. Also ask all friends of harmony and good government to meet and cancel that resolution.

Leadership School To Be Held In Elba

Miss Nell Pickens, State specialist in home management, will assist Miss Allie Hughes, home demonstration agent of Coffee County, in holding a leadership school in the Court House at Elba on April 15, at 10 A. M. Leaders from 11 women's clubs in the county will attend, making a total of 22 leaders.

Miss Pickens' subject at this school will be the past year's work in the different clubs over the county. She will also take the next year's project and the Summer program of work.

Demonstrations will be given on household linen; also household management; also the importance of this company is to advance the cotton industry through the county and to make application to the credit company and if the loan is approved the farmer is advanced the credit.

The Farm Bureau loaned the cotton association $50,000 which it invested in capital stock in the credit company, making it possible for the Credit Corporation to increase its loans by some $200,000.

At present the farm bureau is making arrangements giving Alabama farmers the opportunity to get its value when it is delivered. The value is then stored in the United Wool Growers Association Warehouse in Baltimore, where it is graded, insured and sold through the National Wool Growers Association, the central sales agency for all wool cooperatives of the United States. This will make it possible for Alabama wool growers to pool their wool and sell it along with the wool of the other wool cooperatives.

At present, a national livestock association is being organized by the American Red Cross, and which will be one of the high points in the convention program. By request, he will deliver an address at the dinner, telling of his experiences and those of other farmers of Elba, during the disastrous flood which all but wiped the town from the map.

Leadership School To Be Held In Elba

Miss Nell Pickens, State specialist in home management, will assist Miss Allie Hughes, home demonstration agent of Coffee County, in holding a leadership school in the Court House at Elba on April 15, at 10 A. M. Leaders from 11 women's clubs in the county will attend, making a total of 22 leaders.

Miss Pickens' subject at this school will be the past year's work in the different clubs over the county. She will also take the next year's project and the Summer program of work.

Demonstrations will be given on household linen; also household management; also the importance of this company is to advance the cotton industry through the county and to make application to the credit company and if the loan is approved the farmer is advanced the credit.

The Farm Bureau loaned the cotton association $50,000 which it invested in capital stock in the credit company, making it possible for the Credit Corporation to increase its loans by some $200,000.

At present the farm bureau is making arrangements giving Alabama farmers the opportunity to get its value when it is delivered. The value is then stored in the United Wool Growers Association Warehouse in Baltimore, where it is graded, insured and sold through the National Wool Growers Association, the central sales agency for all wool cooperatives of the United States. This will make it possible for Alabama wool growers to pool their wool and sell it along with the wool of the other wool cooperatives.

At present, a national livestock association is being organized by the American Red Cross, and which will be one of the high points in the convention program. By request, he will deliver an address at the dinner, telling of his experiences and those of other farmers of Elba, during the disastrous flood which all but wiped the town from the map.

It has been the custom for years, at these conventions, it is stated, for the Red Cross to invite a representative citizen from each section of the nation, to attend and discuss such problems as are peculiar to their respective sections. In the past, representatives have come from various Southern States. This is the first time, it is stated, that the Southeastern representative has been chosen from Alabama.

When the disastrous flood swept down on Elba, March 1, 1929, Mr. Brunson, who resided there, was not only one of the heaviest sufferers from the wrecked town, but he also had to witness the swirling waters having wrought by the cross. The attendance at the service is quite good, considering the early hour.
